

American University of Integrative Sciences, Barbados

Full Accreditation Review Pending

November 2020 Update

The CAAM-HP at its Annual General Meeting held November 18-19, 2020, expressed concern that there had been no response to its request that the School submit documents in preparation for a full accreditation survey. The University has been advised that there can be no determination of an accreditation status of the medical education programme without submission of the appropriate documents and a site visit to its basic science campus and clinical affiliates.

July 2019 Determination: Full Accreditation Review Pending

This was the first review of American University of Integrative Sciences (AUIS) by CAAM-HP.

CAAM-HP at its meeting held from July 25-27, 2019 considered the reviewer's report of the visit to the Campus in Barbados in June 2019.

The Authority, after careful consideration of the report, concluded that AUIS is at a stage at which it would be eligible for a full accreditation survey. CAAM-HP therefore asked that the school prepare for the accreditation survey in 2020.